

References for Children's Services Practice Notes, vol. 12, no. 3 (June 2007)

- Friedman, P. (2003). Meeting the challenges of social service delivery in rural areas. Welfare Information Network, 7(2). Retrieved on April 12, 2005 from <http://www.financeproject.org/Publications/meetingthechallengeIN.htm>
- Lohmann & Lohmann (2005). Rural Social Work Practice. New York: Columbia University Press.
- Mack, K., & Boehm, S. (2001). Rural child welfare 101. Children's Voice. Annapolis Junction, MD: Child Welfare League of America.
- Macro International. (1999). Rural welfare to work strategies: Research synthesis. Calverton, MD: Author.
- North Carolina Rural Economic Development Center, Inc. (2004). North Carolina rural profile: Economic and social trends affecting rural North Carolina, April 2004. Retrieved on April 3, 2007 from <http://www.ncruralcenter.org/pubs/RuralProfile2004.pdf>
- NC Rural Economic Development Center. (2005, Nov.) 's Small towns fact book. Raleigh, NC: Author. <www.ncruralcenter.org/pubs/SmallTownsFactBook.pdf>
- Strong, D.A., DelGrosso, P., Burwick, A., Jethwani, V. & Ponza, M. (2005). Rural research needs and data sources for selected human services topics, Volume 1: Research needs, May 31, 2005. Washington D.C.: Mathematica Policy Research, Inc.
- Templeman, S. B. & Mitchell, L. (2002). Challenging the one-size-fits-all myth: Findings and solutions from a statewide focus group of rural social workers. Child Welfare, LXXXI(5), 757-772)
- Thompson, D., Socolar, R., Brown, L. & Haggerty, J. (2002). Interagency collaboration in seven North Carolina counties. Journal of Public Health Management Practice, 8(5), 55-64.
- US Census Bureau (2003a). Census 2000 P2 (Summary File 1).
- US Census Bureau (2003b). Census 2000 P5 (Summary File 3).
- Warner, M., Hinrichs, C., Schneyer, J. & Joyce, L. (2004). Sustaining the rural landscape by building community social capital. Retrieved on April 3, 2007 from http://www.cardi.cornell.edu/land_use/environmental_management/000249.php